THE NEXT CALL OF REGISTERED MEN

WILL INCLUDE THE FOLLOWING IN THE ORDER PUBLISHED HERE.

The experience of the board now examining men of the first call under the selective draft in Lawrence county, shows that in order to get 125 soldiers it is going to be necessary to examine more than 244. The following is a list of those who are in line for the next call. The board will take a little time after examining the 244 before proceeding with any more. We are publishing these 166 additional names without knowing just how many the board will call for the next examination. More names will be printed in our next issue.

List of names of persons whose Registration Cards are in the possession of this local board in the order of their liability for military service, as determined by this local board, as required by the rules and regulations.

35 PER CENT ARE PHYSICALLY UNFIT

RESULT OF EXAMINATION FOR FIRST TWO DAYS SHOW THIS RESULT.

The Lawrence county board of examiners of registered men called to army service began its work last Monday at the court house. W. D. O'Neal, G. R. Vinson and Dr. Bromley, composing the board, realized that they were up against a large sized job, and by eleven o'clock that night they were thoroughly convinced of this fact.

Forty men per day are being examined. The physicians working are Dr. A. W. Bromley, Dr. T. D. Burgess and Dr. L. S. Hays.

Out of the first 77 men examined 35 per cent failed on the physical examination. Of the 49 who passed, a large majority claimed exemption. These claims cannot be passed upon immediately, as the board is overworked and must have more time than this week to examine the claims thoroughly. It now looks like a large number in addition to the 244 will have to be examined in order to get 125.

The result of the physical examinations should awaken the people to the alarming condition of more than one-third of the young men and should bring about better attention to physical development and health conditions. One fellow of more than minimum height weighed less than 100 pounds. Others weighed only slightly above 100.

SUPPLY OF FORD CARS ARRIVING

Augustus Snyder, agent for the Ford automobiles, is receiving a car load of these machines and has promise of further deliveries very soon. August first was the beginning of the Ford company's new year. The prices remain the same as last year and this is about the only automobile on the market that has not raised its price.

LAWN FETE.

The ladies of the M. E. Church South will serve ice cream and cake all afternoon and evening on Friday of this week on the lawn at the residence of Mrs. W. L. Ferguson. Everybody invited.

Drowning of Beatrice Crutcher

One of the saddest accidents that has happened in Louisa was that which cost the life of Miss Beatrice Crutcher on Thursday afternoon of last week. Brief mention of the tragedy was made in the NEWS last week.

Miss Crutcher was drowned in Big Sandy river while in bathing with several girls and boys. They entered the river at the foot of the street leading from Lock avenue at Henry Preston's residence. The dam is down, undergoing repairs and the bathers found the water shallow on this side. Miss Crutcher and others waded toward the West Virginia shore and she stepped off into deep water. She sank and called for help when she came up. Her companions tried to reach her and Rudolph Spencer caught hold of her, but could not retain his hold. After a search lasting about two hours the body was found some distance below where she was last seen.

The funeral took place Friday afternoon from the residence of the parents, Mr. and Mrs. Clarence B. Crutcher, Rev. A. C. Bostwick, of the M. E. Church, conducted the services. The interment took place in Fulkerson cemetery.

The funeral was largely attended by friends of the stricken family and by the youthful friends of the deceased. Miss Beatrice was in her seventeenth year. She was a bright, cheerful, lovable girl, and her tragic death has brought deep sorrow to the large number of young persons with whom she associated. Beatrice was a faithful member of the M. E. Church and Sunday school. She will be greatly missed there, as well as from the public school, and the community.

Delay in the transmission of a telegram prevented her brother Frank from reaching here from Cannel City in time for the funeral.

PROGRESS ON NEW CHURCH AND CONFERENCE PLANS.

Johns Thompson came up from front Tuesday to assist in finishing the woodwork on the interior of the new M. E. Church South. John Wellman had been doing all of the skilled carpenter work, but could not complete it all in time for the conference. Both these men are fine carpenters and the work they are doing is of high class.

The quartered oak panel work has arrived and is being erected. All material except a few small items is now here and the building should be entirely completed before September 5, when the annual session of the Western Virginia Conference assemblies.

Rev. W. H. Foglesong, the pastor, and Mr. A. O. Carter, Steward, have been around to see the people of Louisa about entertaining the preachers, and delegates and have almost finished. Rev. Foglesong stated Sunday that he was highly gratified with the hospitable and cheerful manner in which the people had responded to this call for entertainment. He did not meet with a single flat refusal from any one approached, either in his own church or from members of the other churches. This bespeaks a hearty welcome for the ministers. Louisa is looking forward to this important gathering with much interest and pleasant anticipation.

AUTO SKIDS AND GOES OVER BANK, KILLING TWO WOMEN.

Bluefield, W. Va., August 4.—Mrs. J. B. Kirk and Miss Nannie Whitley were killed. Miss Nellie Whitley's wrists and ankle were broken. Shirley Kirk's shoulder was broken and Miss Hazel Kirk and Dr. J. B. Kirk were injured seriously when their auto skidded over a high embankment at Oakvale, W. Va., near here, today.

The crew of a passing freight train witnessed the accident, stopped their train and rushed to the scene.

Dr. Kirk is one of Southern West Virginia's most prominent physicians and the Misses Whitley, who are from Tazewell, Va., are among the wealthiest residents of Southwest Virginia.

DIED OF BRIGHT'S DISEASE.

Wm. Bryan aged 44 years, died at his home at Zella last Saturday night after an illness caused by Bright's disease. He was one of the good citizens of that community.

TEN MONTHS TO TRAIN THE MEN

DRAFTED MEN NOT LIKELY TO GO ABROAD BEFORE SEPTEMBER 1918.

Washington, August 7.—Only 20 per cent of the men drafted for the national army in Kentucky and Indiana will be called for training at Camp Taylor for early in September. The same percentage will apply at all of the cantonments.

The entire national army of 557,000 men will not be called to the colors before the latter part of October.

The men at Camp Taylor will be in training for approximately ten months, and it is not likely that they will be ready to board transports for Europe before September 1, 1918.

According to plans about 100,000 men will be sent to the cantonments to organize them and prepare for the reception of the others. The railroads have notified the Government that they can not transport that great number of men to cantonments in one day. This is one of the physical difficulties which force the Government to abandon its plans of calling the army into active being in one day throughout the nation.

The recruitment of the new civilian army is the biggest problem any Government has ever undertaken. These men coming from civilian life must be fitted from head to foot with military clothes and ammunition and arms.

SERIOUSLY INJURED.

Last Friday morning Peter Vanhoose, 15 son of Mr. and Mrs. John Vanhoose, of Hewitt, W. Va., was seriously injured while working at the Kenova mine car plant. His glove caught in the machinery and he was hurled against heavy iron bars. His skull was fractured. He is in a Huntington hospital.

I. C. O. F. OFFICERS.

The following officers were elected at a meeting recently held by Louisa lodge No. 270, I. O. F.:

Jas. Q. Lackey, Noble Grand; Ernest T. Westlake, Vice Grand; Henry E. Evans, Treasurer; W. T. Cain, Secretary.

Federal Loan Bank Appraises

The Lawrence County Farm Loan Association expects to receive from the Federal Farm Bank at Louisville very soon the money for its members whose applications have been accepted. Titles are yet to be abstracted. Mr. W. H. Flannery, of Catlettsburg, appraises for the bank, arrived here Monday and was occupied three days in making the appraisements. He will now examine the Fallsburg Association's applications.

The Georges creek association had only $12,000 of acceptable loans, where a minimum of $20,000 is required to organize. They have made application to join the Lawrence County Association, of which James H. Woods is president.

LAWRENCE CO. FAIR AT LOUISA IN SEPT.

OFFICERS WILL PUBLISH PREMIUM LIST WITHIN A SHORT TIME.

The Lawrence County Fair Association will hold a county fair at Louisa on Sept. 20, 21, 22. The premium list is being prepared and will be published next week. It will cover the items usually included in a county fair display. The committee is preparing to have an exhibit that will be pleasing and profitable and everybody is invited to take a hand in making it a success. Preparations to enter exhibits in some or all the lines. Lawrence county can have a good fair if everybody will cooperate and show proper interest. That's what is necessary.

Death Comes to Phillip Shivel

Mr. Phillip Shivel died at the hospital Monday. He was operated upon for appendicitis and seemed to be well on the way to recovery, when about eight days after the operation he became quite sick and gradually grew worse. The body was taken to Gallup for burial.

He was 32 years old and leaves a wife and four little daughters, the oldest only eight years of age. He was a son of Mr. and Mrs. G. W. Shivel, of Gallup. For some time he has lived at Zaneville, Ohio, and was stricken with appendicitis while visiting at Gallup. He was a man of good standing in every way and his untimely death has brought deep sorrow to his many friends. He was a worthy member of the I. O. O. F. and the Christian church. The funeral took place on Wednesday, conducted by Rev. Griswold.

KILLED BY TRAIN.

The NEWS mentioned the fact last week that two women were killed near Radnor, W. Va., by a freight train. They were Mrs. Lizzie Preston, 56, and Mrs. Lou Potter, 35. There was no eye witness, but it is generally believed they were standing on the track watching coal being dumped into the tipples on the opposite side of the creek, and did not hear the train.

The accident occurred while the two were on their way to visit a sick friend, Miss Gypsy Thompson, 13, who died at about the hour their deaths occurred. They were christian women and were known for their many kind deeds, often visiting and caring for the sick.

Mrs. Potter leaves four girls and two boys. She was a sister-in-law of Mrs. L. G. Waller, of Ft. Gay, W. Va.

ATTENDED S. S. CONFERENCE.

Mrs. Grace Sammons and Mr. W. H. Vaughan, of Louisa, were in Ashland Friday and Saturday attending a meeting of the first annual Boyd County Sunday School Conference of Older Boys and Girls, an organization started recently by Rev. Geo. A. Joplin, State Secretary Sunday school work. About fifty were in attendance.

SERGEANT MCCLINTOCK.

"OVER THERE"

The Thrill and the Hell of the Trenches, Described by an American Boy.

Sergeant Alexander McClintock of Lexington, Ky., and the Canadian Army Has Greeting Tale That Every American Will Read, For He Tells the Facts—Unadorned. Wounded, a Distinguished Conductor Medal Man, He Was Invalided Home, but Is Going "Out There" Again to Fight For Uncle Sam and His Allies. An Inspiring, Interesting, Personal Narrative, Full of the Spirit and Atmosphere of the Trenches.

No. 4. Shifted to the Somme

By Sergeant Alexander McClintock, D. C. M., 87th Overseas Bn., Canadian Gren. Guards.

Copyright, 1917, by the Bell Syndicate, Inc.

Sergeant McClintock is an American boy of Lexington, Ky., who has seen service in France, was decorated for bravery, wounded, invalided home and now is returning to accept a commission. This is the fourth article in the series. In the first article he told of his training up to the point where he reached the front line trenches. In the second he outlined the elaborate preparations for a bomb raid, and in the third the disastrous raid was described.

A FEW days after the bombing raid, which ended so disastrously for us, our battalion was relieved from duty on the front line, and the tip we got was that we were to go down to the big show then taking place on the Somme. Our relief was a division of Australians. You see, the sector which we had held in Belgium was a sort of preparatory school for the regular fighting over in France. It wasn't long before we got into what you might call the big league contest, but in the meanwhile we had a little rest from battling Fritz and the opportunity to observe some things which seem to me to be worth telling about. Those of you who are exclusively fond of the stirring detail of war, such as shooting and being shot at and bombing and bayoneting, need only skip a little of this. We had an entirely satisfactory amount of smoke and excitement later.

As soon as our relief battalion had got in we moved back to Poperinghe for a couple of days' rest. We were a pretty contented and jovial lot, our platoon especially. We were all glad to get away from the strain of holding a front trench, and there were other advantages. For instance, the alterations of our muster due to casualties had not come through battalion headquarters, and therefore we had in our platoon sixty-three rum rations night and morning and only sixteen men.

It Was Good Clean Fighting. Nobody Fired a Shot.

There was a Canadian Scot in our crowd who said that the only word which described the situation was "g-r-r-r-and!"

There was a good deal of jealousy at that time between the Canadians and the Australians. Each had the same force in the field—four divisions. Either force was bigger than any other army composed exclusively of volunteers ever before assembled. While I belong to the Canadian army and believe the Canadian overseas forces the finest troops ever led to war, I must say that I have never seen a body of men so magnificent in average physique as the Australians. And some of them were even above the high average. The man that punched me in the eye in an "estamina" in Poperinghe made up entirely in his own person for the absence of Les Darcy from the Australian ranks. I don't know just how the fight started between the Australians and us in Poperinghe, but I know that it took three regiments of Imperial troops to stop it. The most convincing story I heard of the origin of the battle was told me by one of our men, who said he was there when it began. He said one of the Australians had carelessly remarked that the British generals had decided it was time to get through with the sidishow in Belgium, and this was the reason why they had sent regular troops like the Australians in to relieve the Canadians. Then some sensitive Canadian wished the Australians luck and hoped they'd finish it up as well as they had the affair in the Dardanelles. After that our two days' rest was made up principally of beating it out of estaminas when strategic requirements suggested a new base or beating it into estaminas when it looked as if we could act as efficient re-enforcements. That fight never stopped for forty-eight hours, and the only places it didn't include were the church and the hospitals. I'll bet to this day that the Belgians who run the estaminas in Poperinghe will duck behind the bars if you just mention Canada and Australia in the same breath.

But I'm bound to say that it was good, clean fighting. Nobody fired a shot, nobody pulled a bayonet, and nobody got the wrong idea about anything. The Australian heavyweight champion who landed on me went right out in the street and saluted one of our lieutenants. We had just one satisfying reflection after the fight was over—the Australian battalion that relieved us fell heir to the counterattack which the Germans sent across to even up on our bombing raid.

Down to the Somme.

We began our march to the Somme by a hike to St. Omer, the first British headquarters in Europe. Then we stopped for a week about twenty miles from Calais, where we underwent a course of intensified training for open fighting. The infantry tactics, in which we were drilled, were very similar to those of the United States army, those which, in fact, were originated by the United States troops in the days of Indian fighting. We covered most of the ground around Calais on our stomachs in open order. While it may seem impertinent for me, a mere non-com, to express an opinion about the larger affairs of the campaign, I think I may be excused for saying that the war didn't at all take the course which was expected and hoped for after the fight on the Somme. Undoubtedly the allies expected to break through the German line. That is well known now. While we were being trained near Calais for open warfare a very large force of cavalry was being assembled and prepared for the same purpose. It was never used.

That was last August, and the allies haven't broken through yet. Eventually I believe they will break through, but in my opinion men who are drawn for service in the first half million of our new American army will be veterans in Europe before the big break comes which will wreck the Prussian hope of success in this war. And if we of the U. S. A. don't throw in the weight to beat the Prussians now they will not be beaten, and in that case the day will not be very far distant when we will have to beat them to save our homes and our nation. War is a dreadful and inglorious and ill smelling and cruel thing. But if we hold back now we will be in the logical position of a man hesitating to go to grips with a drunken, savage, shrieking, spewing maniac who has all but whipped his proper keepers and is going after the onlooker. However, I wish we had had two months more of weather on the Somme. There might have been a different story to tell.

Simplified Medicine.

We got drafts of recruits before we went to the Somme, and some of our wounded men were sent back to England, where we had left our "safety first battalion." That was really the Fifty-first battalion of the Fourth division of the Canadian forces, composed of the physically rejected, men recovering from wounds and men injured in training. The Tommies, however, called it the "safety first" or "Major Gilday's Light Infantry." Major Gilday was our battalion surgeon. He was immensely popular, and he achieved a great name for himself. He made one realize what a great personal force a doctor can be and what an unnecessary elaboration there is in the civil practice of medicine.

Under Major Gilday's administration no man in our battalion was sick if he could walk, and if he couldn't walk there was a reasonable suspicion that he was drunk. The major simplified medicine down to an exact science of two forms of treatment and two remedies—"number nines" and whole oil. "Number nines" were pale oval pills, which, if they had been eggs, would have run about eight to an omelet for six persons. They had an internal effect which could only be defined as dynamic. After our men had become acquainted with them through personal experience they stopped calling them "number nines" and called them "whiz-bangs." There were only two possibilities of error under Major Gilday's system of simplified medicine. One was to take a whiz-bang for trench feet and the other to use whole oil externally for some form of digestive hesitancy. And in either case no permanent harm could result, while the error was as simple of correction as the command "about face." Blighty was therefore not very popular with our battalion, blighty being the trench name for the hospital.

Two weeks and a half after we left Belgium we arrived at Albert, having marched all the way. The sight which met our eyes as we rounded the rock quarry hill outside of Albert was wonderful beyond description. I remember how tremendously it impressed my pal, Macfarlane. He sat by the roadside and looked round over the landscape as if he were fascinated.

"Boy," said he, "we're at the big show at last."

Poor fellow! It was not only the big show, but the last performance for him. Within sight of the spot where he sat wondering he later fell in action and died. The scene which so impressed him gave us all a feeling of great awe. Great shells from a thousand guns were streaking and crisscrossing the sky. Without glasses I counted thirty-nine of our observation balloons. Away off in the distance I saw one German captive balloon. The other aircraft were uncountable. They were everywhere, apparently in hundreds. There could have been no more wonderful panorama picture of war in its new aspect.

Our battalion was in and out of the town of Albert several days waiting for orders. The battle of Concretelette was then in progress, and the First, Second and Third Canadian divisions were holding front positions at terrible cost. In the first part of October, 1916, we "went in" opposite the famous Regina trench. The battleground was just miles and miles of debris and shell holes. Before we went to our position the officers and non-coms were taken in by scouts to get the lay of the land. These trips were called "Cook's tours." On one of them I went through the town of Poziers twice and didn't know it. It had a population of 12,000 before the war. On the spot where it had stood not even a whole brick was left, it seemed. Its demolition was complete. That was an example of the condition of the whole country over which our forces had blasted their way for ten miles since the previous July. There were not even landmarks left.

The "Cook's Tour."

On the night when we went in to inspect the positions we were to hold, our scouts, leading us through the flat desert of destruction, got completely turned round and took us back through a trench composed of shell holes connected up until we ran into a battalion of another brigade. The place was dreadful beyond words. The stench of the dead was sickening. In many places arms and legs of dead men stuck out of the trench walls.

We made a fresh start after our blunder, moving in single file and keeping in touch each with the man ahead of him. We stumbled along in the darkness through this awful labyrinth until we ran into some of our own scouts at 2 a. m. and found that we were halfway across No Man's land, several hundred yards beyond our front line and likely to be utterly wiped out in twenty seconds should the Germans sight us. Fine guides we had on this "Cook's tour." At last we reached our proper position, and fifteen minutes after we got there a whiz-bang, a low explosive murderer, buried me completely. They had to dig me out. A few minutes later a high explosive shell fell in a trench section where three of our men were stationed. All we could find after it exploded were one arm and one leg, which we buried. The trenches were without trench mats, and the mud was from six inches to three feet deep all through them. There were no dugouts, only merely miserable "funk holes," dug where it was possible to dig them without uncovering dead men. We remained in this position four days, from the 17th to the 21st of October, 1916.

There were reasons, of course, for the difference between conditions in Belgium and on the Somme. On the Somme we were constantly preparing for a new advance, and we were only temporarily established on ground which we had but recently taken after long drumming with big guns. The trenches were merely shell holes connected by ditches. Our old and ubiquitous and variously useful friend, the sandbag, was not present in any capacity, and therefore we had no pararets or dugouts. The communication trenches were all blown in, and everything had to come to us overland, with the result that we never were quite sure when we would get ammunition, rations or relief forces. The most awful thing was that the soil all about us was filled with freshly buried men. If we undertook to cut a trench or enlarge a funk hole our spades struck into human flesh and the explosion of a big shell along our line sent decomposed and dismembered and sickening mementoes of an earlier fight showering among us. We lived in the muck and stench of "glorious" war, those of us who lived.

The German Dugout—and What They Found.

Here and there along this line were the abandoned dugouts of the Germans, and we made what use of them we could, but that was little. I had orders one day to locate a dugout and prepare it for use as a battalion headquarters. When I led a squad in to clean it up the odor was so overpowering that we had to put on our gas masks. On entering we first saw two dead nurses with our ghastly flashlights, one standing with her arm around a post, just as she had stood when gas or concussion killed her. Seated at a table in the middle of the place was the body of an old general of the German medical corps, his head fallen between his hands. The task of cleaning up was too dreadful for us. We just tossed in four or five fumite bombs and beat it out of there. A few hours later we went into the seared and empty cavern, made the roof safe with new timbers and notified battalion headquarters that the place could be occupied.

During this time I witnessed a scene which, with some others, I shall never forget. An old chaplain of the Canadian forces came to our trench section seeking the grave of his son, which had been marked for him on a rude map by an officer who had seen the young man's burial. We managed to find the spot, and at the old chaplain's request we exhumed the body. Some of us suggested to him that he give us the identification marks and retire out of range of the shells which were bursting all around us. We argued that it was unwise for him to remain in danger, but what we really intended was that he should be saved the horror of seeing the pitiful thing which our spades were about to uncover.

"I shall remain," was all he said. "He was my boy."

It proved that we had found the right body. One of our men tried to clear the features with his handkerchief, but ended by spreading the handkerchief over the face. The old chaplain stood beside the body and removed his trench helmet, baring his gray head to a drizzle of rain that was falling. Then while we stood by silently his voice rose amid the noise of bursting shells, repeating the burial service of the Church of England. I have never been so impressed by anything in my life as by that scene.

The dead man was a young captain. He had been married to a lady of Baltimore just before the outbreak of the war.

The philosophy of the British Tommies and the Canadians and the Australlians on the Somme was a remarkable reflection of their fine courage through all that hell. They went about their work paying no attention to the flying death about them.

"If Fritz has a shell with your name and number on it," said a British Tommy to me one day, "you're going to get it, whether you're in the front line or seven miles back; if he hasn't, you're all right."

Fine fighters all. And the Scotch kilties, lovingly called by the Germans "the women from hell," have the respect of all armies. We saw little of the polius, except a few on leave. All the men are self sacrificing to one another in that big melting pot from which so few ever emerge whole. The only things it is legitimate to steal in the code of the trenches are rum and "fags" (cigarettes). Every other possession is as safe as if it wore a patent lock.

The fifth article of this remarkable personal narrative will appear soon. It is entitled:

No. 5.—Wounded in Action.

This article describes the terrible fight the dead and dying, the loss of a pal and the final falling of McClintock in No Man's Land. Simply told, it is one of the most remarkable descriptions of a battle by a participant ever put together.

REDUCE YOUR GROCERY BILL.

Here Are the Points You Need to Know About Canning Vegetables and Fruits For the Wintry Days Ahead of Us All in Wartime.

(Prepared by National Canners Association, Golden Commission.)

Select sound vegetables and fruit. If possible, can them the same day they are picked. Wash clean and prepare them.

Have ready on the stove a can of boiling water. Place the vegetables or fruits in cheesecloth or in some other porous receptacle—a wire basket is excellent—for dipping and blanching them in boiling water.

Put them whole into the boiling water. After the water begins to boil begin to count the blanching time.

The blanching time varies from one to twenty minutes, according to the vegetable or fruit. When the blanching is complete remove the vegetables or fruits from the boiling water and plunge them a number of times into cold water to harden the pulp and check the flow of coloring matter. Do not allow to stand in cold water.

The containers should be thoroughly clean. It is not necessary to sterilize them in steam or boiling water before filling them, for the reason that in the cold pack process both the insides of containers and the contents are sterilized. The jars should be heated before the cold product is put in them.

Pack the product into the containers, leaving about a quarter of an inch of space at the top.

With vegetables add one level teaspoonful of salt to each quart container and fill with boiling water. With fruits use skillets.

With a glass jar always use a new rubber. Test the rubber by stretching or turning inside out. Fit on the rubber and put the lid in place. If the container has a screw, turn as hard as possible, but use only the thumb and little finger in tightening it. This makes it possible for steam generated within to escape and prevents breakage. If a glass jar is used, snap the top ball only, leaving the lower ball loose during sterilization. Tin cans should be completely sealed.

Place the filled and capped containers on the rack in the sterilizer. If the homemade or commercial hot water bath outfit is used some authorities insist that enough water should be in the boiler to come at least one inch above the tops of the containers and that the water in boiling out should never be allowed to drop to the level of those tops. Begin to count processing time when the water begins to boil.

At the end of the sterilizing period remove the containers from the sterilizer. Fasten covers on tightly at once, tip each container over to test for leakage, and store. Be sure that no draft is allowed to blow on glass jars, as it may cause breaking.

If jars are to be stored where there is strong light, wrap them in paper, preferably brown, as light will fade the color of products canned in glass jars and sometimes ruin food value.

The brilliant work done by the British air service in Tuesday's battle was one of the remarkable phases of the allied drive. Despite the thick weather, a huge fleet of airplanes hovered low above the lines, keeping in close contact with their infantry. In this service they wrought havoc on the German defenses and troops with bombs and machine gunfire, sweeping down to within seventy or eighty feet of the ground at times. During the day they discharg-

Local boards were formally instructed by Provost Marshal General Crowder last night that they may well hold that a marriage recently contracted especially by a registrant after he has been called for examination does not create a status of dependency justifying immunity from conscription. Further modifications of the regulations relating to exemption of married men are expected soon as a result of the wholesale claims of exemption on the ground of technical dependency.

While details were not made public, it became known last night that the Naval Consulting Board and a committee appointed by Maj. Gen. George W. Goethals have worked out plans to safeguard American ships from submarine attack.

Norway faces starvation if the United States cuts off exports of foods, and is willing to release 1,800,000 tons of shipping to the allied nations in return for food. Dr. Fridtjof Nansen, head of the Norwegian mission, stated yesterday.

Reports at the American Consulate in London yesterday said that twenty-four members of the crew of the American steamer Motano perished when that vessel was destroyed by a German submarine on July 31.

Four persons were arrested by Federal officers at Lowden, Ia., and charged with treason and resisting the Government. A dozen others were questioned and it was announced more arrests are expected.

SATURDAY.

Premier and War Minister Kerensky and his fellow cabinet members, except one, resigned last night, with the exception of M. Terestchenko, the foreign minister, withdrew their resignations. To defend himself against charges that he had been connected with the German General Staff—M. Toheroff, the Socialist Minister of Agriculture, has resigned. Efforts to strengthen the Russian cabinet by the inclusion of Constitutional Democrats, seemingly failed, and Premier Kerensky will attempt to rule the country with sides from the Radical and Socialist parties. Gen. Erdeli, recently appointed Military Governor of Petrograd, is reported to have been assassinated.

Northeast of Ypres on Friday the troops of Field Marshal Haig, reestablished themselves in the town of Saint Julien, captured by them on Tuesday, but from which they were driven by the Germans on Wednesday. Additional ground was gained south of Holbeke near the center of the line on which the Entente allied attacks were launched early this week. British artillery dispersed German forces preparing to attack near Ypres. On Tuesday the first day of the allied advance, 6,123 Germans were made prisoners by the Anglo-French forces.

Bukovina is almost entirely in the hands of the Teutons again. Czernowitz, its capital, has been occupied by the Germans and Kimpolug, an important town several miles south of the Sumanian border, has been evacuated by the Russians. The German advance in Galicia and Bukovina seemingly is aimed at Kamesetz Podolsky, a fortified city north of the Dniester and in the direction of Odessa, Russia's great port on the Black Sea.

That Germany was in possession of the Austrian ultimatum to Serbia fourteen hours before it was delivered has been admitted by the Berlin Foreign Minister, according to advices made public in Washington. The time, he has indicated, was not long enough to take action to stop the note which precipitated the European war. Washington, however takes it as an indication that Germany did not want to prevent war.

Bands of Indians, tenant farmers and negroes in three Oklahoma counties, opposed to operation of the selective draft law are creating a state of terror. Farmers who are not members of the gangs have been warned to get out and two railroad bridges have been dynamited. Posses are being formed to hunt down and arrest the bands.

The War Tax Bill, under revision since May 24, was put into final form for report to the Senate by the Finance Committee. The new increase of $227,000,000 over the committee's original draft is distributed among corporate incomes, individual incomes, distilled spirits, beer, excess profits, banks, coffee, tea and sugar.

SUNDAY.

David Lloyd George, the British Premier, in an address at Queens Hall, London, yesterday, declared that no one in any of the warring Powers knew how near the aims of the Allies were to fulfillment. He declared that the Kaiser and the German Chancellor had never spoken of peace without annexations or of restoration. He declared that these two men would have to learn the meaning of the word "restoration" and come to any peace conference with that word foremost before the Allies would consent to discuss peace. He declared that all of England—every class—had made sacrifices for the war and that every class must have a word in the making that the entry of the United States into the war had given the Allies.

Although continuing to advance at many points on the Russian front, the German forces on the Flanders front are slowly being pushed back by the Entente forces. Following the British advances Friday night, the French drove forward in the Ypres front east of Kortekker Cabaret. The British recaptured the remainder of the Monchy line. French during Friday night. The German official statement says all of Galicia except one small strip has been cleared of Russians. The Russian statement declares that stiffer resistance is being offered the advancing Germans, but that because of reason of morale some units still are in retreat.

France is stronger to-day in fighting men and war materials than at any time during the war, despite three years of terrific combat of which the greatest share among the Allies has fallen to the French armies, according to a message to the American people given by Andre Tardieu, High Commissioner of France in the United States. It is a question now of striking the last blow at the adversary and the United States will help, he declared.

Twenty-seven miners are known to be dead as a result of two explosions in Mine No. 9 of the West Kentucky Coal Company at Clay. Twenty other men still in the mine, are believed to be dead. MONDAY.

The Canadian forces about Lens have again begun tightening the pincers by which they expect to squeeze the Germans out of that French industrial city. They have advanced 200 yards along a 1,000-yard front in the Cite du Molin, pushing the Germans back to within 1,000 yards of the center of Lens. There was some infantry fighting in Flanders yesterday. The Anglo-French forces being victorious in two battles. Crown Prince Rupprecht, after an all-night artillery bombardment, attacked the British on the Ypres-Comines Canal, between Ypres and Warenton, and gained a footing in Holbeke, only to be expelled later. Northwest of Bixchoote the French continued to gain. On the Aisne front the Germans attacked unsuccessfully, twice against the Casemates plateau and once south of Juvincourt.

The Russian political situation has become calmer. Premier Kerensky has withdrawn his resignation, and there are continued indications of the strengthening of the morale of the Russian army on the southwestern front. With all political parties behind Premier Kerensky in his effort to solidify the Provisional Government, it will be possible for him to carry out stronger measures for the safety of the revolution. The new head of the armies, Gen. Korniloff, also will be able to use more stringent means in keeping the Russian soldiers to their duty.

The resistance of organized bands in Oklahoma to the army draft is believed to be virtually at an end. Thirty men were arrested yesterday by Sheriffs and their posses. Some of them

RHEUMATISM ARRESTED

Many people suffer the tortures of lame muscles and stiffened joints because of impurities in the blood, and each succeeding attack seems more acute until rheumatism has invaded the whole system.

To arrest rheumatism it is quite as important to improve your general health as to purify your blood, and the cod liver oil in Scott's Emulsion is nature's great blood-maker, while its medicinal nourishment strengthens the organs to expel the impurities and rebuild your strength.

Scott's Emulsion is helping thousands every day who could not find other relief. Refuse the alcoholic substitutes.

Have you a building job on your hands?

Now that prices are high it is more than ever important that you give careful consideration to the roof you are going to put on. You can save real money and get a better roof by using

Certain-teed Roofing

Thru quality and sheer merit as a roofing material CERTAIN-TEED is now being used as the preferable type of roofing for sky-scrapers, factories, hotels, stores, warehouses, garages, farm buildings etc., where durability is necessary.

It is economical to buy, inexpensive to lay and costs practically nothing to maintain. It is weather-tight, light weight, clean, sanitary and fire-retardant. It is guaranteed for 5, 10 or 15 years, according to thickness (1, 2 or 3 ply).

There are many roll roofings on the market, but only one CERTAIN-TEED. It pays to get the best. It costs no more to lay a CERTAIN-TEED roof than it does to lay a poor roof, but there is a vast difference in the wear. You can't tell the quality of a roofing by looks or feel. Your only safety is the label. Be sure that it is CERTAIN-TEED—then you are certain of quality and guaranteed satisfaction.

Certain-teed Slate-Surfaced Asphalt Shingles are supplanting wood and slate shingles for residences. They cost less, are just as good looking, wear better, won't fall off, buckle or split. They are fire-retardant, and do not have to be painted or stained.

Certain-teed Paints and Varnishes The name CERTAIN-TEED on a can of paint or varnish is the same guarantee of quality and satisfaction it is on a roll of roofing or a bundle of shingles. Made for all uses and in all colors.

Argentina is taking a stronger attitude in her negotiations with Germany over submarine outrages. She has broken off discussions with the German Minister to Buenos Aires concerning the sinking of the Argentine steamer Toro and sent a final note to Berlin. The Argentine Government asks for a conclusive reply to its demands within a reasonable time.

The $1,000,000 fund being raised by the Knights of Columbus for the relief and recreation of Roman Catholic soldiers and sailors has been greatly oversubscribed. Supreme Knight James A. Flaherty announced in Chicgo. The Supreme Council Tuesday will consider increasing the amount to $5,000,000.

The First Kentucky Infantry became a unit of the U. S. Army yesterday, as provided in the President's proclamation. The 2,692 men of the regiment automatically ceased to be National Guardsmen when they became Federal soldiers. No ceremonies marked the change in status.

Approximately 11,000 members of the Indiana National Guard are mobilized at their home stations preparatory to assembling at Fort Benjamin Harrison, near Indianapolis, and later going to Hattiesburg, Miss.

Special Intercessional services to mark the opening of the fourth year of the war were held at Westminster Abbey yesterday. The British King, clad in a naval uniform, attended as an ordinary private worshipper.

At Pineville, Ky. Mrs. John Pop yesterday shot and killed Miss Rosie Brock, of whom she was jealous. Mrs. Pop surrendered to the Sheriff immediately after the deed.

Suffering Described As Torture
Relieved by Black-Draught.

Rossville, Ga.—Mrs. Kate Lee Able, of this place, writes: "My husband is an engineer, and once while lifting, he injured himself with a piece of heavy machinery, across the abdomen. He was so sore he could not bear to press on himself at all, on chest or abdomen. He weighed 165 lbs., and fell off until he weighed 110 lbs., in two weeks.

He became constipated and it looked like he would die. We had three different doctors, yet with all their medicine, his bowels failed to act. He would turn up a ten-cent bottle of castor oil, and drink it two or three days in succession. He did this yet without result. We became desperate, he suffered so. He was swollen terribly. He told me his suffering could only be described as torture.

I sent and bought Theodor's Black-Draught. I made him take a big dose, and when it began to act he fainted, he was in such misery, but he got relief and began to mend at once. He got well, and we both feel he owes his life to Theodor's Black-Draught."

Theodor's Black-Draught will help you to keep fit, ready for the day's work. Try it!

The favorite song of U. S. soldiers on their way to France was "We're Going to Can the Kaiser."

The Lexington Herald has decided that Secretary of War Baker is unfit for his portfolio because the cantankerous man was not located at Lexington. The Herald has also intimated several times that President Wilson is not proper on his job. But there is cheer in the thought that if the worst comes to the worst maybe the Herald can be induced to take charge of the country.—Cynthiana Democrat.

HUMMING BIRD.

Wilbur, Ky., August 6, 1917.

To my many friends:—I am taking this method to express to you my kindest and most sincere thanks, for your loyal support in my race for County Judge. I entered this race by the solicitation of many and because I have seen the upper part of the county has been neglected to some extent. I am sure if I had been nominated and elected that no thinking and fair minded man of either party would have had any room to have complained. But I have made a clean race and have been overcome by Mr. Riffe, one of my opponents, by about twenty-five majority. I accept it with the kindest feelings for Mr. Riffe and hope that if he be; or Mr. Stone, his opponent, elected that we will have a clean business administration. I can see many things that are not going the way that I think they should go as to the building up of this county morally, financially and physically. I would have greatly enjoyed putting some of them into effect, starting at the county seat. In the closing of this article I hope that politics will be greatly purified by putting good business men in for officers.

Yours most sincerely,
LAKE WALTER.

GRIFFITH CREEK.

JAMES H. WOODS, Chairman.
Democratic County Committee.

THANKS HIS FRIENDS

The returns at the Republican primary election held on the 4th day of August, 1917, show my defeat by a small majority. I take this opportunity to thank my many friends for their loyal support. I am not sore, but yield to the will of the people. I am for the entire Republican ticket and will support it as a whole at the coming November election.

Again thanking my friends more than I can express in words for their earnest support. I am yours, BASCOM MUNCY.

MT. ZION.

People of this place are very anxious for the recovery of our Supt. J. K. Fuller, who has been sick for some time. We trust that he will be back with us in a short time.

GOLDEN GLOW.

SLEEPING PORCHES.

Nothing has proven of such great advantage in the prevention and cure of consumption as pure air and living in the open as much as possible. If the room is so arranged that there can not be a free passage of air through it, a sleeping porch should be used by victims of the disease. When there is none to the house one can be supplied at very small cost, say $12 to $15. A window can be used for the approach and if the porch is no larger than to contain a bed and a chair it will prove effective for the outdoor treatment. The roof can be made of canvas. The end most exposed to the wind and rain should be tightly boarded to prevent draughts. If possible it should overlook pleasant and sanitary surroundings and will give better results when made pleasant and attractive. The value of such porches is not confined to consumptives but will be found to promote health and strength to the weak from any cause. Living in the open by day and sleeping in porch admitting an abundance of fresh air, eating well cooked and nutritious food, stopping heavy work and taking bodily and mental rest by lying down before and after the noon and evening meals have arrested many a case of consumption and proved beneficial in all. Write to Dr. W. L. Heizer, Secretary of the State Tuberculosis Commission, Frankfort, for pamphlets giving full directions for living and sleeping in the open air and follow the expert advice it contains and benefits will be the result especially under the direction of a good physician.

MANY EXCUSES MADE IN EXEMPTION PLEAS

Cincinnati, O., August 2.—"Mortgage on home" was the reason assigned by one Cincinnati man called for selective service examination, explaining why he should not fight.

Another said he was a "piano tuner" though he didn't try to explain the relation of his job to that of making the world safe for democracy.

Indianapolis Ind., August 4.—Federal authorities arrested a negro here Friday on the charge of not registering for military service. "I don't care to fight this summer," he said. "I'll go next winter, if I can get an indoor job."

Detroit, August 4.—Asserting that he was the "sole" ticket of his wife's "ma" one young man claimed exemption from draft when examined today. There are also many conscientious objections, but the majority are being drafted without a whimper.

Bangor, Me., August 4.—The examining board of this district received the following letter from a man notified to appear:

Thanking you for your favor, I wish to say that after careful consideration, I have decided not to enter the national army at this time."

OBITUARY.

Robert M. Preston was born February 4, 1834 and departed this life July 21, 1917, aged 83 years, 5 months and 16 days. He leaves to mourn his death his wife, two sons, one daughter, two brothers and a host of friends and relatives. He was a member of the M. E. Church South, and professed faith in Christ about 37 years ago at a meeting conducted by his pastor the Rev. Solers, at the Peachorchard church.

His funeral was preached by the Rev. A. H. Miller in the yard at his home in the presence of a large gathering of friends, and his body was laid to rest on the point near his home near Georges creek this county. A.H.M.

LAYNE-SPEARS.

Mr. Reil Spears, of Whitehouse, and Miss Ada Layne, of Harold, were married in Louisa Tuesday night at the home of Dr. C. B. Walters. The bride is the attractive daughter of Mr. Broad Layne, Rev. H. B. Haelett officiated. The only guests were the bride's sister, Mrs. B. W. Shell of West Van Lear, and Miss Lora Sparks, of Whitehouse. A delicious dinner was served in honor of the occasion. The couple left the next morning for Pittsburgh, where Mr. Spears is employed.

CLIP THIS AND PIN ON WIFE'S DRESSER

Cincinnati man tells how to shrivel up corns or callouses so they lift off with fingers.

Ouch ! ! ! ! This kind of rough talk will be heard less here in town if people troubled with corns will follow the simple advice of this Cincinnati authority, who claims that a few drops of a drug called freezone when applied to a tender, aching corn or hardened callous stops soreness at once, and soon the corn or callous dries up and lifts right off without pain.

He says freezone dries immediately and never inflames or even irritates the surrounding skin. A small bottle of freezone will cost very little at any drug store, but will positively remove every hard or soft corn or callous from one's feet. Millions of American women will welcome this announcement since the inauguration of the high heels if your druggist doesn't have freezone tell him to order a small bottle for you.

necessary to amputate one arm and a foot. She died from a heart stroke soon after the operation in a Huntington hospital. She is said to have saved $1500 from her earnings as operator, which she had invested in real estate in Ashland.

We are having a very injurious drought at this writing. The pastures and corn crops are suffering considerably.

Jay Yates is opening up a coal mine on the Buck branch between this place and Fallsburg, and will supply that end of the neighborhood with coal, both for drilling purposes and to burn in the houses.

Born, on the 26th, to Chas. Carter and wife a young soldier, and on the 27th, to Birch Huletts and wife, a Red Cross nurse, and on the 21st, to James Bradley and wife another Red Cross nurse. You see we are a very patriotic people here around about Yatesville.
The mothers and babes are all doing nicely.

Bro. Kirk, our preacher in charge, preached his valedictory sermon here last Sunday immediately after Sunday school and both preacher and congregation had a farewell hand shake at the close of the services.

Uncle Sammy Short is up from Russell, Ky., and is spending a few weeks with his grandchildren, the Carter girls.

Miss Parilee Davis was out Tuesday at the home of Eva Bentley and showed some of the canning girls how to can beans.

All of our boys who have been called to the colors are attending the examinations at Louisa.

Our public school is progressing nicely with Miss Dora Johns as teacher.

G. J. Carter is closing out his stock of merchandise pretty fast and will soon be a full fledged Louisian.

The Chester Inn

It Proved a Fitting Place For a Wedding

By ETHEL HOLMES

John Overaker, a member of the national guard of the state of New York, was engaged to be married to Helen Withers, who lived in Chicago. John was called to the colors with the expectation of being sent to the war at an early date. Most young men who are called upon to fight for their country and have sweethearts seem to prefer to go forth as married rather than as bachelors. At any rate, John Overaker proposed a wedding to his fiancée, and his proposition was accepted to by the lady.

Since Miss Withers lived a thousand miles from Mr. Overaker and he could not get a leave to be absent long enough to go to Chicago, be married and return, an agreement was made between the lovers that she should come to him instead of his going to her for the wedding. Miss Withers did not like the idea of a wedding in Mr. Overaker's home instead of her own, or in a hotel, or in the office of a justice of the peace. Just as she was about to start east she received a letter from a Mrs. Chester, an intimate friend living near New York, to whom she had written of her quandary, inviting her to be married from her house. Not having time before starting to write fully on the subject, Miss Withers scratched off a brief note to her lover asking him to meet her on a certain date at the location in which her friend lived, adding, "Come to the Chester."

It is unfortunate to be obliged to write hurried instructions for a meeting. Miss Withers' ink gave out as she finished the word "Chester," and there was none left for the "a." When Overaker read the note he inferred that the Chester was an inn. He was too busy with his military duties to read the missive over a second time. Indeed, it was difficult for him to do all he had to do before leaving to keep the appointment.

Overaker concluded to make the journey in civilian dress, though he took with him a uniform in which to be married. After spending an hour on a train he alighted at his station. A taxi chauffeur stepped up to him, and Overaker told him that he wished to go to "the Chester." The man knew of no such hotel; but, preferring not to confess his ignorance and having often seen a handsome residence which was known as the Chester place, he concluded to take the chances of its being the house his fiancée meant. The consequence was that Overaker was driven to the house where he was to meet his bride, thinking that he was going to a hotel.

A maid in black and white uniform opened the door for him, and in a few minutes a lady came in to receive him. "I would like a room, if you please," he said. "I am to meet a lady from Chicago here, Miss Withers. Has she arrived?"

Now, the lady was Miss Withers' friend, Mrs. Chester. She had expected Miss Withers a few hours before Overaker arrived, but had received a telegram from some one—doubtless traveling with Miss Withers—stating that there had been a railway accident and consequent delay. The fact that the telegram made no mention of Miss Withers having escaped injury looked ominous. It occurred to Mrs. Chester that it would be better for the present to keep the matter from Mr. Overaker. His having mistaken her house for an inn facilitated her doing so.

"The lady has not yet arrived," she said, "but I have been advised of her coming."

"I am Lieutenant John Overaker. I am to meet Miss Withers here to be married to her. Did she mention this fact?"

"She did. She is to be married in this house."

"Do you know if she expects me to make the necessary preparations for the wedding?"

"I will do that for her."

"Indeed. Have you had any previous acquaintance with her?"

"Oh, yes; Miss Withers has been here a number of times."

"Very well. I suppose there is nothing for me to do, so with your permission I will go to my room. I have been so busy lately that I have had very little sleep. I may get a nap before my fiancée's arrival. It will freshen me."

This suited Mrs. Chester exactly, since she hoped to get news of Miss Withers while her fiancée was resting. She led the way upstairs to a chamber. Overaker following. It did not look like a hotel bedroom, there being pictures on the walls and various articles that one does not find except in a private house, but Overaker was too much absorbed in his military situation, to say anything of his military situation, to dwell upon the condition of his room, and after getting the dust off him he threw himself on the bed, closed his eyes and in a few minutes dropped asleep.

The next news Mrs. Chester received of Miss Withers was brought by the lady herself. She had not been injured in the railroad accident and was perfectly well. Mrs. Chester informed her of the arrival of her fiancée; that he had mistaken the house for an inn; that she had permitted him to remain in error that she might better save him an anxiety concerning his expected bride.

Miss Withers went to Overaker's room, knocked gently at the door and, receiving no other reply than a snore, she opened the door sufficiently to enable her to look in at her slumbering fiancée. He seemed so dead tired and was resting so comfortably that she did not the heart to awaken him. Going downstairs to her friend, she said: "I don't know but that we had better permit him to remain in ignorance of the fact that he is in a private house. He is very sensitive as to his entourage of others, and to know that he had spoken to my friend and hostess, a landlady would dampen his spirits for the wedding so soon to follow."

"I have been thinking of the same thing and quite agree with you," replied Mrs. Chester. "There will be no necessity to make an explanation. You can tell him about it at some future time."

At the end of two hours after Miss Withers' arrival the time appointed for the wedding arrived, and the butler was sent to Overaker's room to awaken him and announce Miss Withers' arrival. The announcement tended to arouse the lieutenant, who completed his toilet and, going down into the drawing room, embraced the girl who was soon to be his bride. She explained the delay in her arrival, and her presence uninjured did away with the shock that might otherwise have been expected.

"I think we need some refreshment," said Overaker, and, stepping to an electric button, pushed it. The butler entered, and Overaker said: "Bring us in a bite of anything you may have in the larder and let me have a wine card."

The butler had been coached and returned with a simple "Yes, sir." The bride to be was about to inform her lover that he was making a mistake, but changed her mind, concluding to let the matter take its course. There being some delay in serving the refreshment, Overaker rang the bell again, intending to give the butler a piece of his mind for being so long. But the man brought with him a tray, on which were a dainty luncheon and a bottle of wine.

"All right," said Overaker. "Where's the wine card?"

"The landlady says that it will be in the bill," was the reply.

Lieutenant Overaker and his bride to be enjoyed a very delicious luncheon together. Overaker, it must be admitted, was more in a condition to make merry than his fiancée, who was beginning to feel somewhat concerned as to the treatment the friend who was permitting the use of her house for the bridal was receiving at the hands of her lover. This belief that Mrs. Chester was a landlady and was to receive pay for what she was giving was becoming embarrassing. Something must be done to change the status.

"Don't you think," said Miss Withers, "that since Mrs. Chester has been so kind as to make the arrangements for our wedding we should invite her to lunch with us?"

"Certainly. Bring her in."

Miss Withers went out and returned with Mrs. Chester, who played her part as landlady admirably and treated the bride and groom with the respect due them from one of her station. Overaker drew the line between his landlady and an equal, much to her amusement, while his fiancée was a trifle embarrassed at the situation.

The wedding was set for 4 o'clock in the afternoon. Overaker was to leave to rejoin his regiment at 5, while the bride was to remain for a brief visit. When the parson arrived the household entered a room that had been properly decorated and awaited the coming of the bride and groom. The latter was somewhat surprised at the richness of the decorations and voted the landlady who had prepared them a trump. But what surprised him more was to find her gowned and jeweled in a manner not befitting the landlady of the Chester Inn. There was still another surprise—a necklace that only a person of wealth could afford, which Mrs. Chester gave the bride for a wedding present.

By this time Overaker began to suspect that something was wrong. But he did not communicate his suspicions to his bride. Shortly before leaving the house he said to her:

"I suppose I am in for some expense in this matter."

"Not at all," was the reply. "Since we could not be married in Chicago, where all the expense would have fallen on my father, the bills here are all paid, the same as if the wedding had taken place at my home."

"But—" began the groom and paused.

"But what?"

"How about the luncheon and wine I ordered?" stammered the lieutenant.

The bride broke into a laugh, called her friend, "the landlady," and all was explained to the groom.

His remark on being enlightened was indicative of the selfishness of man.

"If this gets out in the regiment I'm gone up."

"I am delighted," said Mrs. Chester, "with the outcome of this affair. When this morning I received the telegram announcing the accident I was filled with terror lest we should have something very different from a wedding. I had no idea in permitting Lieutenant Overaker to remain in error, turning the affair into a bit of fun. He should certainly thank me for saving him from several hours' bitter anxiety."

"And he has also to thank you," replied the lieutenant, "for a luncheon and a bottle of wine."

When Lieutenant Overaker returned from the bridal trip, which lasted but a few days, they went to Mrs. Chester's house. Since Overaker could not atone for mistaking her for a landlady by a gift he declared that he would name his first girl child for her.

How to Pack a Trunk.
When packing for a trip always remember to put all the heaviest things at the bottom of the trunk. Evening dresses, perischaide waists and all such dainty things should be put on top, where you can reach them. Hang them up as soon as your trunk arrives at your destination. A hat trunk is not a necessity. Put your hat on the top tray of your trunk and secure it with push pins to the bottom. Unless the brim is wide this will do no harm.

Stuff the bodices of waists, light dresses, etc., with tissue paper. Roll the paper into light balls, never tightly. The result should look like an article just sent from the cleaner's.

Hop Beer.
Take four pounds of malt, two pounds of brown sugar, one pint of molasses, one-half pound of hops to eight gallons of water. Steep this in a boiler all night (don't boil it). Put it in a keg and when lukewarm add one yeast cake and let it work eight to ten hours. Then put the faucet and bung in.

Did You Ever Pay a Bill Twice

The one who has not had to pay more than one bill the second time is the exception and not the rule. Few people when paying a bill ask for a receipt and if they do they fail to keep the receipt. Did you ever have a dispute over a payment? Unpleasant is it not? Do you wish the circumstance to occur again? There is one sure way to escape it. Pay your bills with checks. If you received no interest on your idle money it would only show good sense and good wisdom to have it in a BANK. Transact your business in a business way and pay your bills by checks. Sorrow For The Dead.

The following article from a once noted and eminent writer, cannot but meet with the general approbation of a thinking and conservative people.

The sorrow for the dead is the only sorrow from which we refuse to be divorced. Every other wound we seek to heal, every other affliction to forget; but this wound we consider it a duty to keep open. The affliction we cherish, and brood over with solace. Where is the mother who would willingly forget the infant that she perished like a blossom from her arm, though every recollection is a pain? Where is the child that would willingly forget a tender parent, though remember be but to lament? Who, in the hour of agony, would forget the friend over whom he mourns?

No, the love which survives the tomb is one of the noble attributes of the soul. If it has its pain, it has likewise its delights, and with the overwhelming burst of grief, calmed into the gentle tear of recollection; when the sudden anguish at the convulsive agony over the presence of all that we most loved is faded away into pensive meditation, all that it was in the days of its love, who would recede out such a sorrow in the heart? Though it may sometimes throw a pale cloud over the bright hour of gaiety, or spread a deeper sadness over the hour of gloom; yet, who would exchange it even for the song of pleasure or the burst of revelry? No, there is a voice from the tomb sweeter than song. There is a remembrance of the dead to which we turn even from the charms of the living.

Oh, the grave! the grave! It buries every error, covers every defect, extinguishes every resentment! From its peaceful bosom spring none but fond regrets and tender recollections. Who can look down upon the grave even of an enemy, and not feel a compunctious throb that he should have warred with the poor handful of earth that lies molding before him? But the grave of those we loved—what a place for meditation! There it is that we call up, in long review, the whole history of virtue and gentleness, and the thousand endearments lavished upon us, almost unheeded in the daily intercourse of intimacy; there it is that we dwell upon the tenderness, the solemn, awful tenderness of the parting scene; the bed of death, with all its stifled griefs, its noiseless attendance, its mute, watchful assidues, the last testimonies of expiring love, the feeble fluttering, thrilling—Oh! how thrilling—pressure of the hand, the last fond look of the glazing eye turning upon us, ever from the threshold of existence, the faint, faltering accents, struggling in death to give one more assurance of affection.

Go to the grave of buried love, and meditate! There settle the account with thy conscience for every past benefit of unrequited, every past endowment unregarded, of that departed being, who can never, never, never return to be soothed by thy contrition! If thou art a child, and hast ever added a sorrow to the soul or a furrow to the silvered brow of an affectionate parent; if thou art a husband and hast ever caused the fond bosom that ventured its whole happiness in thy arms to doubt one moment of thy kindness or thy truth; if thou art a friend, and hast ever wringed, in thought or word, the spirit that generously confided in thee, if thou hast given one unmerited pang to that true heart, which now lies cold and still beneath thy feet; then be sure that every unkind look, every ungracious word, every ungentle action, will come thronging back upon thy memory, and knocking dolefully at thy soul; then be sure that thou wilt lie down sorrowing and repentant on the grave, and utter the unheard groan, and pour the unavailing tear: more deep, more bitter, because unheard and unavailing.

Let us then bow down to the will of an "All Wise" and "Beneficent God," and henceforth be more considerate and affectionate in the discharge of our duty to the living.

Many a man is rich without money. Thousands of men with nothing in their pockets and thousands without even a pocket, are rich. A man born with a good sound constitution, a good stomach, a good heart and limbs, a pretty good head piece, is rich. Good bones are better than gold; tough muscles, thin silver and nerves that flash fire and carry energy to every function, and it is better than a landed estate to have the right kind of a father and mother. The man is rich who has a good disposition, who is natural, kind, patient, cheerful, forgiving, hopeful, and who has a flavor or fun in his composition. The hardest thing to get along with in this life is man's own self. A cross, selfish fellow, a despondent and complaining fellow, a time and care burdened man, these are all born deformed on the inside. They do not limp, but their thoughts sometimes do.

The census enumerators tell us that of the 151,000 women who work in the fields (a farm hands 495,000 are 13 years of age and under. What is the final destiny of a nation whose future mothers spend their girlhood days behind the plow, pitching hay and hauling manure, and what is to become of womanly culture, charm society and enthrone men to leap to glory in noble achievements?

Who does not feel more cheerful and contented for receiving a polite bow, a genial "good morning," a hearty shake of the hand? Who does not make himself the happier by these little expressions of fellow-feeling and good will? Silence and a stiff, unbending reserve are especially selfish and essentially vulgar.

Keep the home-fires bright if you would have the winter of life warm and pleasant.

Monkeying With A Signal Code

By DONALD CHAMBERLIN

Abercrombie, who was a bachelor, did not spend his time dawdling around clubs and drawing rooms. He owned a splendid yacht, the Theta, big enough to sail anywhere in any waters, and in this yacht he made his home. He contributed quite a number of inventions to assist scientists in making deep sea soundings and investigating ocean currents and at the time referred to in this story was endeavoring to simplify sea signals.

Abercrombie sailed to the Philippines among other places, where he was welcomed by the United States officials, especially the officers of the army. Among the families of the officers he met Miss Lella Turnlee, the daughter of Colonel Turnlee, commander of the 1st Infantry. Miss Turnlee understood his devices readily.

Now, the way Abercrombie knew that Miss Turnlee understood his contrivances was because she always said "Yes" and "Indeed" and "How clever" exactly at the right time, and when he asked, "Do you follow me?" she always replied, "Perfectly."

Mrs. Turnlee was much pleased that her daughter had a mind capable of receiving the explanations of Abercrombie's inventions by Abercrombie himself—not that she cared anything for the inventions, but she hoped her daughter's vigor of intellect would lead Abercrombie to become interested and possibly that a fine catch would fall to the family. The good lady had dragged half a dozen children over many territories in the western portion of America during her younger days and had known what it was to get settled in quarters to be immediately ordered to some other station or turned out by a ranking officer. Abercrombie's yacht was preferable to an adobe hut or log apartment even when fixed. In other words, Mrs. Turnlee desired that her daughter should marry elsewhere than in the army.

At dinner one evening at Colonel Turnlee's quarters Abercrombie was explaining to the family his new system of sea signals. Colonel Turnlee, who was a West Pointer and should have understood anything in the signal line, knew but little of what his guest said. Mrs. Turnlee understood never a word. Miss Lella did not need to ask a single question. It all seemed to go straight to her brain and find lodgment there.

"Upon my word!" exclaimed Abercrombie, "How did you good people come to have a daughter who understands these things so well?"

"Lella has always attended the best schools," said the fond mother pointedly. "Besides, she has scientific tastes." "I have never met," Abercrombie declared enthusiastically, "one who has taken in everything I have said so readily."

"She inherited it from her grandfather, Admiral Turnlee," the mother pursued. "He wrote a book on coral reefs and another on volcanic formations. Children always take from their grandparents rather than their own fathers."

Colonel Turnlee, who was cracking nuts, did not notice his wife's aspersions on his own generation.

"Do you think, Miss Turnlee," said Abercrombie, "that if I were to send you a message by my code from my yacht out in the bay you would understand it?"

"I think I would," replied the girl demurely—"that is, if it were not too long."

"Very well. Look out for one tomorrow afternoon."

"How shall I reply? I have no signals."

"You can write or, better, telegraph."

Miss Lella made no reply to this. Possibly she was timid at being put to the test, fearing that she might fail. I don't know how she felt about it. I only throw this out as a suggestion. Her mother had confidence that she would understand the signal perfectly and furnish Abercrombie with fresh evidence of the brilliancy of her intellect. The colonel went on cracking and munching nuts, but said nothing. When the dinner broke up he had to go over to see the commanding general, and Mrs. Turnlee received a visit from the major's wife. This left Abercrombie and Miss Lella alone together for the rest of the evening. Abercrombie in order to give her a better chance to pass the test to come off next day coached her a bit, asking her a few leading questions concerning it. He discovered that she did not know as much about the code as he had thought she did. He left her doubting that she would be able to telegraph him a correct answer to his message.

The next day at 3 there were evidences on the Theta of a desire to communicate with some one. Abercrombie himself was hauling up little flags and running them down again. His message was, "You are a very bright girl." When the signaling was over Abercrombie waited for her telegram. It did not come, but later Colonel Turnlee's orderly brought a note. It read:

Your flattering offer of your heart and hand comes so unexpectedly that I should have time. But my own heart says now and always "Yes."

Abercrombie read the missive with a stare. He married Miss Turnlee, but even as his wife she would never tell him whether she had understood his message or not.

Whether or not it was this experience that caused the change, certain it is that Abercrombie lost all interest in signaling and studied it no more.

The popular combination of soft gray and navy blue is here materialized in crepe de chine, with dull gold employed to embroider the lacy points, one of which so charmingly picks out the front of the blouse.

BUCHANAN

Chiff Sunday school at Buchanan observed the 22nd as Children's and Cradle Roll Day. The house was filled and quite a number remained outside for lack of room. There were 203 persons present, 86 answered the Sunday school roll call. The exercises were pronounced good, the stage was well arranged and beautifully decorated. The music was fine. Mr. Hamilton, the noted singer from Lee, was with us, and played the violin, and sang, to the delight of all present.

Rev. J. H. Dawson, our preacher in charge, was present and rendered splendid services. During the exercises he baptized six infant children, many present were deeply impressed with the baptismal ceremony.

The Cradle Roll exercises conducted by Elizabeth Harten, superintendent of that department, was made very attractive by the songs sung by the little people. The song "When we gather up the Treasures" sung by Miss Belle Burchett was appreciated by the congregation. The song "Open the gates" sung by little Mary Wallace was beautifully rendered.

The closing scene, a pantomime "The old rugged cross," was hard to excel.

HELLIER NEWS

(By HARRY COHEN)

A SERMON ON COURTESY.

Treating a friend like a rich uncle, so that you may extract his coin, is not courtesy—that's foresight.

Offering a seat to the man who enters your office is not courtesy—that's duty.

Listening to the grumblings, growlings and growlings of a bore without retorting is not courtesy—that's forbearance.

Offering your companion a cigar when you light one yourself is not courtesy—you'd be libeled if you didn't.

Helping a pretty girl across the street holding her umbrella, carrying her poodle—none of these is courtesy.

The first two are a pleasure and the last is politeness. Courtesy is doing that which nothing under the sun makes you do but human kindness. Courtesy springs from the heart; if the mind prompts the action, there is a reason, if there is a reason, it is not courtesy.

For courtesy has no reason. Courtesy is good will, and good will is prompted by a heart full of love to be kind. Only the generous man is truly courteous—he gives freely without the thought of receiving anything in return. The generous man has developed kindness to such an extent that he considers everyone as good as himself—and treats others not as he should like to be treated (for generosity asks nothing) but as he ought to be treated.

MORAL: Courtesy to all—rich or poor, old or young—pays big dividends and doesn't cost a cent.

PIKE COUNTY NEWS

WM. WADE WALKER.

Mr. William Wade Walker of Vulcan, Va. was here for examination Tuesday. He passed all tests and claimed no exemption. Mr. Walker was a student in the college here for several years and graduated here, as he has many friends here who are interested in his success. He is a very excellent young man and is sure to do his patriotic duty to the best of his ability.

The young men whose numbers were drawn in the national army draft for Pike-co., are being examined this week. On Tuesday about 200 were examined, and of this number there were only about 15 who claimed no exemption. However, practically all who were examined passed the physical tests very well. A more complete account of this will be given next week as the examinations have not been finished at this time (Wednesday noon).

VIOLIN CONCERT.

The violin concert given by Sutt Fisher at the M. E. Church on Thursday evening was enjoyed by a large audience. Mr. Fisher is a violinist of rare ability, and his playing shows the result of careful training by good teachers. The accompaniments were played by Mr. Carl Fisher, brother of Sutt Fisher, and were enjoyed quite as much as were the violin solos. This is the first concert these brothers ever gave in a small town, and Pikeville is to be congratulated that it should have been given here.

LEARN TO KNIT.

Miss Julia Maupin, of Staunton, Va., taught a number of the members of the Arachne Auxiliary to knit on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. J. D. Francis.

J. P. POWERS VERY SICK.

Mr. J. P. Powers is very ill at his home on Front-st., and little hope is felt for his recovery. A trained nurse is constantly with him and everything possible is being done to effect his recovery.

Wellburg, W. Va., August 3.—Lambert, of Welch, W. Va., a student at the West Virginia Aviation School in Louisville the week of Sept. 10, was killed late to-day when the airplane he was flying crashed into the ground during his first flight.

L. Frey, a member of the British Army Corps, detailed as an instructor at the school, was accompanying him and was injured so badly he believed he will die.

Miss Julia Burns and Mr. Adkins were married at Lavan, Va. The bride is a teacher in both schools and the groom is presently in educational circles in Way, Va. They will reside at Bowles, Va.

BOYS' SHEEP CLUB

Being Organized By Bradletting Company Is Every S

The Bradley Knitting co., of Delavan, Wisconsin, is organizing sheep clubs in every State Union. Their object in doing is to stimulate interest in sheep and wool and thereby increase the production of these two staples. They have a plan whereby it is possible for boys in every State to secure a flock of prod ewes, which should be the basis of a great many farm flocks. They have, for free distribution, a sixteen-page booklet, edited by Mr. Anthony Gould, of the American Sheep Breeders, on the care of sheep. They will be glad to send it to any boy who is interested in sheep, or who desires to enter the contest for the sheep.

PRIZE LIST OF $1.00 FOR STATE FAIR COUNTY EXHIBITS

Through the efforts of Commissioners of Agriculture Mar. 8, when the agricultural products of Kentucky will occupy a very conspicuous and distinctive position at the fifteenth annual Kentucky State Fair to be held in Louisville the week of Sept. 10. This year the prize list for county exhibits has been placed at the remarkable figure of $1,000, and in consequence the attention of the state will be centered on this particular feature of the big annual celebration. The prize list was announced the report of the year as reaching the sum of $700. This sum was increased recently through the efforts of Mr. Woodrady of the Louisville Chemical and of the agricultural committee of the board of trade. They voted an additional sum of $200 and a firm to add another $100 to this point, thus securing for the county exhibitors of the state the unprecedented sum total of $1,000. As the list stands the county winning first prize will receive $400 in cash, the county winning second prize will receive $20, and the winner of third prize will receive $150. This list the three are from $200, $150 and $100 to the three figures and gives to the Kentucky State Fair the largest prize list for county exhibits ever offered by any state fair in the United States with the exception of Dallas, Tex., which is the largest and richest fair in the country and has been in existence as long as the Kentucky State Fair. In addition to the cash awards, the best county exhibits, Colonel H. Taylor, Jr., of Frankfort, Ky., will give to the county winning first prize a handsome sterling silver "Older for cup" and which will be worth $100.

To man or woman working up interest in the county exhibit winning a prize will be given a "booster's award" of $5 for the representative of the county winning first prize, $25 for the representative of the county winning second prize and $15 to the representative of the third prize winner.

The Human Factors In Good Service

There are three parties to every telephone conversation—the party calling, the trained operator, and the party who answers. All three share alike the responsibility for quick and accurate telephone service.

The calling party should give the correct number in a distinct voice, speaking directly into the transmitter, and wait at the telephone until the party answers or the operator reports. The called party should answer promptly.
